

Trade-offs along the One Health policy chain

Insights from an anthropological perspective

Andrea Kaiser-Grolimund
Swiss Tropical and Public Health Institute

Bigorio, 18 January 2024

andrea.kaiser-grolimund@swisstph.ch
<https://aliveafrica.webspace.durham.ac.uk/>

Discussion points from the audience

- Research for 'development'; how are global inequalities taken into account in One Health research and implementation?
- What are the differences between One Health and Planetary Health?
- Economic aspect of One Health could be seen as problematic from an ethical point of view – but at the same time it is convincing for policy makers.
- How are the views and priorities of communities/individuals taken into account (transdisciplinary approaches)?
- Interdisciplinarity as a challenge – the question is who has the lead?